Hi Igor --

this got into my mailbox by mistake. You have a justification to go to Las Vegas.

Cheers,
-- David

Dear Dr. Popov,

On behalf of the conference committees, It is my great pleasure to invite you to deliver an invited talk at the International Conference on Small Science (ICSS 2013).

This conference will take place from 15 to 18 December 2013 at the Red Rock Casino Resort and Spa, Las Vegas, NV, USA. To continue its success of last event at Orlando USA, the conference will bring together the international research communities from various scientific disciplines, including materials science, physics, chemistry and biology, to discuss new and exciting advances that involve microscale and nanoscale materials, techniques and methodologies. ICSS 2013 will be a few days of intense collaboration, exciting small science, and great social occasions. I hope you will be able to accept this invitation and contribute your work which I'm sure will add an important dimension to the topics of the conference. Due to budget limitations, we are not able to offer any kind of honorarium or reduced registration fee in return for your appearance.

Please let us know by replying this email including your contact information and your choice of presenting workshops. Upon approval of the conference committees, I would also greatly appreciate if you could join our organizing efforts as a session co-chair to bring your friends and colleagues in.

The ICSS 2013 will not only be a time to enjoy the company of fellow researchers in the field, but also a time to have fun with friends and family! Las Vegas is one of the top tourist destinations in the world. It is an internationally renowned major resort city known primarily for gambling, shopping, and fine dining and is the leading financial and cultural center for Southern Nevada. We encourage you to give yourself some time for recreational pursuits!
